THE SAD YEARS he spent in the White House are reflected in these crayon drawings of Abraham Lincoln by S. J. Woolf. It was during these years that Louisvillian Andrew Cowan, who died in 1919, saw the President five times. Reproductions of these drawings are in the collection of J. M. Fuhrman, 1222 Bates Court. Fuhrman said the original of one of the drawings hangs in Lincoln University in Illinois, but he doesn't know where the other is.
